Of the 410 pay cadets from South Carolina, 263 paid the tuition fee of $40, and 147 were exempted by the State Board of Public Welfare. All of the cadets from outside the State paid tuition.

During the present year, all tuition fees when collected have been deposited with the State Treasurer as required by a provision of the Appropriation Act which reads as follows:

“Provided, That for the year 1930, all tuition fees and other undesignated fees collected by The Citadel shall be paid into the State Treasury monthly, between the 1st and 10th of each month. This fund shall be held in trust by the State Treasurer, to the credit of the institution, and shall be paid out and expended for permanent improvements, or other purposes, on the order of the Board of Trustees, subject to the approval of the State Finance Committee.”

About a year ago, the Board of Visitors passed a resolution raising the tuition fee of cadets from outside the State from $40 to $100 a year. Consequently, during the present session, which began on September 13th, the cadets from other States (about 170 in number) are paying tuition at this higher rate, and consequently a considerably larger income is made available from this source for new buildings and permanent improvements. Last summer, the Board decided, in view of the unusually favorable price conditions for building construction, to erect the Main College Building at the New Citadel. This building has been much needed for several years, but although an appropriation has been requested each year in the budget, the Legislature has declined to approve a direct appropriation, but has adopted a policy of permitting the State colleges to make use of tuition fees for building purposes.

With the approval of the State Finance Committee and the Sinking Fund Commission, a contract was entered into for the erection of the Main College Building at a cost of $123,650, to be paid by fees already collected and pledged for the next three years. This price is generally considered to be remarkably low, and the construction of this building, now in progress, will in all probability be completed by the end of the present session next June, and will add to the plant of the New Citadel one of its most important and imposing units.

The instruction given at The Citadel is comprised under ten departments, conducted by the following faculty:

Mathematics Department:

Colonel O. J. Bond, professor
 Major C. L. Hair, professor

(d) Substituting for Lieutenant R. M. Lyon, who has a year's leave of absence.

The normal salaries paid at The Citadel are as follows:

Heads of departments .....	$3,300.
Other full professors .....	3,000.
Associate professors .....	2,500.
Assistant professors .....	1,875 to $2,400

In this connection, I would like to quote for the information of the General Assembly from the annual report of the president of The Citadel:

"Last January when The Citadel budget was submitted to the Legislature, it contained estimates which called for an appropriation of $232,954.77. As finally passed, the Bill made an appropriation of $203,092.14, showing a cut of 13 per cent.

While acknowledgment must be made that the Legislature dealt generously with The Citadel as a general rule in the item of salaries, there were some small cuts in the salaries of the assistant-professors which I feel sure would not have been made if the members of the General Assembly had been fully aware of the merits of the cases.

I infer that the principle on which these cuts were made was that no injustice would be done the assistant-professors if their salaries were not reduced, and that the economic conditions in the State called for no increases not warranted by special consideration. The effect however, was to nullify the policy of the Board which has been in vogue for some years, of giving the assistant-professors a small increase in salary after a certain number of years' service;—(a policy heretofore approved by the General Assembly)—and if this is to be discontinued I am sure it will be a matter of concern to a considerable number of the younger members of our faculty.

We have twenty assistant-professors, whose annual salaries range from $1875 to $2400 a year, depending upon their length of service. The scale of salaries is as follows:

Salary of assistant-professor for first two years	$1875
Salary of assistant-professor for third year ..	2000
Salary of assistant-professor for fourth year ..	2130
Salary of assistant-professor for fifth year ....	2260
Salary of assistant-professor subsequently .....	2400

These figures, however, do not appear in the budget as such, because the increases in salary begin in September at the beginning of the college year, and the salary for the calendar year has to be calculated.

An example will explain. Take for instance the item "Assistant-professor of mathematics," where the amount requested was $2166.10. This figure was arrived at by the Quartermaster in this way: The assistant-professor was beginning his fourth year of service on September 20th, 1929, at a salary of $2130, according to the above scale. Next September 20th he will begin his fifth year of service at a salary of $2260 (if the Board's scale is to stand). The salary for this assistant for the calendar year 1930, therefore, (the salary requested of the Legislature), was computed for eight and two-thirds months at the first rate, $2130, and for three and one-third months at $2260, which gives the amount $2166.10.

It may be contended that the refusal to provide the small increase works no injustice to the teacher, since his salary is not decreased, but kept at the same figure that it was for the year 1929. This is true, but actually, in working out, an anomalous condition was created. Referring still to the case cited, this assistant-professor drew a monthly salary of $177.50 from September 20th to December 31st, 1929, which was authorized and provided by the Act of 1929. His monthly salary for the present year is $169.67,—or, $7.83 a month less. In fact, the March salary of this teacher had to be reduced to make up for overpayment in January and February, so that he got a check for March of only $154.01.

This case is typical of the assistant-professors.

I cannot believe that the Legislature will insist upon this discouraging policy towards the young men who are earnestly serving the State as teachers,—especially as the total increase in the salaries of all the assistants amounted to only $1524.52.

That these assistants are striving to fit themselves for more efficient service as teachers is amply shown at this time by applications from four of them for a year's leave of absence in order that they may pursue advanced University studies along the line of their special subjects;—this, of course, without any financial assistance from the State, but altogether at their own expense.

Due to the somewhat intricate method of determining the salaries of the assistant-professors illustrated above, it might be advisable for the Board to change the date at which the increases go into effect from the beginning of the session to the beginning of the calendar year, and I recommend that this be done when the budget for 1931 is prepared next October.

The Board of Visitors earnestly requests the Legislature to approve the salary-list as presented in the budget for 1931, all the items of which conform exactly to the adopted scale.

In the same connection, the Board wishes to assure the General Assembly that every possible economy in the administration of the college has been effected, and any cuts made in the appropriations asked for will be at the expense of the efficiency and well-being of the institution.

Respectfully,

J. P. THOMAS,

Chairman Board of Visitors.
